

ACADEMY of EDUCATORS

ANNUAL REPORT 2019-2020

Over the past year, the Academy of Educators held the sky as its limit. The Academy expanded its presence, programming, and scholarship exponentially. Years of planning and ideas yielded the fruits of the first Teaching Bootcamp, goal-exceeding number of events on-campus and at AHEC sites across North Carolina, and the greatest variety of programming, live and online, that we have ever produced in our history. These efforts advanced interdepartmental collaboration, increased membership retention, and set the foundation to support educational scholarship beyond what we ever imagined.

Many thanks to our membership and Leadership Council for a great year!

Honoring Dr. Amy Shaheen

For the past two years, Amy Shaheen, MD, MSc fearlessly led the AOE through major organizational structure and membership requirement changes, as well as overhauls to programming and increases in scholarly output. She has been a driving force in creating more return on investment for members, increasing the quality of our offerings, and creating an environment where faculty want to engage with other likeminded individuals passionate about medical education. She led efforts to increase funding for educational scholarship grants, create the leadership council to provide continuity in leadership, and establish stronger connections with participating AHEC sites.

In April 2020, Dr. Shaheen was promoted to Vice President of Practice Quality and Innovation in the health care system, and she vacated her role as AOE president. Dr. Eric Zwemer, Council Member and Programming Chair shared that "Amy is a remarkable leader who has the uncanny ability to both challenge and support you equally well." Dr. Lindsay Wilson, succeeding AOE President, noted that "Amy is an incredible leader [...] The amazing growth and development of the Academy [...] would not have been possible without her clear vision, tenacious determination, and inspiring passion."
